

Activity Type

Grammar and Speaking Activity: asking and answering questions, writing sentences from prompts

Focus

Third conditional

Aim

To write third conditional sentences.

Preparation

Make one copy of the role cards for every 14 students.

Also, copy one worksheet for each pair of students and cut as indicated.

If there are more than 14 students in the class, duplicate some cards.

For large classes, have the students work in groups.

Level

Upper-intermediate (B2)

Time

30 minutes

Introduction

In this third conditional activity, students find out what happened to their classmates last week and write third conditional sentences about how things could have been different.

Procedure

Give each student a role card and a copy of the worksheet. Tell the students not to show their role cards to anyone.

Ask the students to read their role cards and imagine that this is what happened to them last week. The students then go around finding out what happened to their classmates. After speaking to a classmate, students find out the number on their role card and write a third conditional sentence about how things could have been different next to the corresponding number on the worksheet.

The number of sentences that the students need to write will depend on the number of role cards distributed. When the students have finished, go through each role card and elicit possible third conditional sentences from the students.
